

100 (F) What, or who, is worth 100 trillion, or not?

The choice to seek & find God, or not, is an individual decision, which I respect all for, but I would ask you to give yourself the chance, at the fullness of His blessing, by being open to the idea, that there just might be something within you, that could change your entire outlook & life forever, if you allow it too?

Believing, or not, isn't proof, but if you don't, isn't there still a possible chance, that God is absolutely who He, or others, says He is? even if it's a 1 in a 100 trillion chance, that He exists? Of course, there is, as believing, or not, doesn't make truth, or change the possibility just because you can't prove it. So you should be able to admit, that there could be a chance, even if you don't believe, or see it, right? maybe, possibly?

So, is there anyone that you truly care for dearly? Spouse, kids, family, friends, others? How much do you care about them & how far would you truly go to protect them from torment?

If there was any chance, that you could save them from torment, by praying to God for them, would you do it, or even ask another to do it for you? At what point, or at what odds, would you stop caring about their possible eternity, being between a possible life in paradise forever, or being thrown into a torturous burning pit of fire, brimstone & gnashing of teeth, while crying out, as to why you did not warn them? If there was only a 1 in a 100 trillion chance, would you pray for them, or just leave their eternal life to chance?

I would think that if you truly loved another, more than yourself, that you would chance some free, non harming, personal prayer, regardless of the odds, but no judgment from me, as that's just me & am not the judge, but I know who the One who is & yes I know for a fact that God is that real & that prayers can work miracles, when done in the right context, but if no one in your life is worth the time of prayer to you, that's your choice & I will still be praying for you & yours.

Critical thinking skills, knowledge, wisdom & common sense, causes even the most adamant unbeliever, to admit that there could be a creator, in charge of His creation, which means that the possible eternal life & death & our loved ones, should be worth every possible thing that we could possibly do, to show that we care about them, forever, as we pray to enhance their chance at accepting a better future, than what satan has planned for them.

It simply boils down to how much do you truly love others, as if there is any chance, of God being real & you're not willing to put a loved one's eternity, above your own ego driven doubts, then you may want to look in the mirror & ask; How much do I truly love others, if I cannot let go of my pride, to search & see if God & prayer could save those that I love, from the eternal fire? You & they & all of us, are worth every possible effort, so try it, it's free. Seek God, tell Him about your doubts, disbelief & lack of faith, dare Him to prove Himself to you & you may just be surprised when He calls back to you, or don't & you surely won't.

For I know the plans that I have for you, declares God, plans for prosperity & not for disaster, to give you a future & a hope. Then you will call upon Me & come & pray to Me & I will listen to you & you will seek Me & find Me when you search for Me with all your heart. I will let Myself be found by you, Jeremiah 29:11-14.