

100 B. What do you pledge allegiance to?

America was founded as a Christian nation, that put our love for God above all. We believed in our spiritual heritage & used elections to help keep our country's Christian foundation intact.

Now many call themselves Christians, but do others see them as Christians, as Christianity isn't just a word, it's an action, that starts with love.

We need to realize that if we claim that Christ lives within us, He isn't there to rest, He's there to show others who He is, through sharing His love, through us.

In other words, you must let Christ act & work, in every situation, good & bad, with love & integrity, beyond your reactions, thoughts & opinions, which should be crucified with Christ.

So the flood that we will be discussing, is one that many got caught up in, including myself, for a quick moment & many are still consciously & unconsciously drowning in, which is a subject that has always been touchy, but has never before caused such an overwhelming flood, of hurt & hatred that has dominated & separated closely hinged families, friendships & relationships, among our own people & it's time to seek forgiveness & call on God, to restore love & common sense, to heal these devastating wounds.

This massive flood is that of hatred, towards any, that do not think as U do, e.g., in terms of political affiliations.

In other words, "Who are you voting for"? Because if you use your free will, to vote for someone that I don't believe in, or like, then U don't call yourself my friend anymore.

When did U decide to choose Hitler, or satan, as your role model, believing that you were smarter than all others & you would hate anyone, that didn't vote as "perfectly righteous" as you? Democrat, or Republican.

Asking others to unfriend you, because they think differently than you, leaves you absolutely friendless & possibly unworthy of friends, if you realize it or not, because everyone has the right to think differently than you & to be respected for that freedom, as that's what living in America is.

Maybe it's time to step back to your childhood, did friends really have to like & dislike, the same people, teachers, stores, neighbors, pets, food as you, before you "allowed" them to be your friend?

Would you not let one who voted differently, save you, or your family's life if it came to it? Would you not save theirs if you could?

Are you less of a sinner than them, or a better friend, or family member? Or do you contribute more to society, or your community, or church, than them?

What makes you better in God's eyes, than them that feel & vote differently than you?

When did you fall so in love with those in your nation's Capital, to where you would put faith & love of them, above your family, friends, neighbors, co-workers & do you really believe that the political group you vote for, is so honest & caring, that they care about you, as much as those who you cast out, put down & unfriended, due to a wealthy, tell U what U want to hear, political party, that will never support you & yours?

It may be time to get out of politics & start apologizing, if it has caused you to think that you have so many friends that you can just shut them down & throw them out, just for thinking differently than U?

It may just be time to look in the mirror & see that without Godly people friendly values, you may not be as important to the world, as you think you are, or that you could be, if you reinstate & share those free Godly values, above the costly self-believed political thoughts & lack of true human values.
